Dear Examiner Pond,

I have discussed your proposal with Dana and he is in agreement that your proposal is acceptable; we very much appreciate you making the effort to provide suggestions. Please let us know whether you would like for us to file a supplemental amendment or effect an Examiner's amendment on your end; we will do whatever is easiest and least time consuming for you. Again, thank you for all of the time you have invested in working with us on this application; your efforts are truly appreciated.

Warm regards,
David Yang

Hi Mr. Yang,
Attached is a suggestion on how to fix the claims per our conversations yesterday. This overcomes Neel, is consistent with your title, abstract, specification, and your arguments cited in 3/6/06 and 2/21/07.

If you think I'm totally off the mark, then please explain to me why you, Mr. Jones and I spent significant time discussing Neel and amending around Neel (at least Fig. 7a and disclosures supporting Fig. 7a). Fig. 7a is all about a customer accessing content that requires a fee without charge to the customer on the precondition the customer views a sponsor's advertising message.

If this is not what you want then respond to the Non-responsive with previous arguments but strike arguments that content is being paid by a facilitator/interposed sponsor since it is ambiguous as to who if anyone is actually paying for content in Claim 1 (as entered on 2/21/07). Claim 24 (2/21/07) is broader with regards to content protection but implements the targeted aspects that we've discussed, i.e. consumer making a request for the media product. Claim 1 is ambiguous as to how the media product was identified. Claim 24 is ambiguous as to whether the consumer is accessing content that requires any sort of payment which renders the facilitator or sponsor paying aspects irrelevant. Claim 1 suffers the same ambiguity since "IP rights protection" alone does not inherently require royalty payments.

If we can't reach agreement on the suggested language in the attachment or mods to the suggestion, the next office action in response to your reply to the Non-response (due soon) will get Neel or other prior art on the record in terms of an office action. We can pick up from that point in prosecution to perfect, else you may choose to Appeal that action if we then cannot reach agreement.

Please contact me to let me know which direction you will take.

Respectfully,

Rob Pond
